Structure of the class IV adenylyl cyclase reveals a novel fold.

The crystal structure of the class IV adenylyl cyclase (AC) from Yersinia pestis (Yp) is reported at 1.9 Å resolution. The AC contains both a cyclase domain and a triphosphatase, spanning the three kingdoms of life and delineating an ancient family of phosphonucleotide processing enzymes.

DOI: 10.1016/j.jmb.2006.07.008

PubMed ID: 16905149