Deposition of platinum clusters on surface-modified Tobacco mosaic virus.

Nanoscaled Pt conductors were prepared from genetically engineered Tobacco mosaic virus (TMV) templates through Pt cluster deposition. The study highlights the potential of these engineered viruses in future electrical devices such as rapid response sensors.