Tobacco mosaic virus induced alterations in the gene expression profile of Arabidopsis thaliana.

Abstract
In this study, mRNA profiles generated from cDNA microarrays were used to identify gene expression changes in Arabidopsis. These changes are likely a reflection of the biochemical and physiological alterations involved in the development of the disease syndrome.

DOI
10.1094/MPMI.2003.16.8.681