Conservation of nonpeptide antigen recognition by rhesus monkey V gamma 2V delta 2 T cells.

We have previously found that monkey Vgamma2Vdelta2(+) T cells mount adaptive immune responses in response to bacterial products, and it is conserved in primates suggesting that primates can provide an animal model for human gammadelta T cell Ag responses.