An electrochemical sensor for selective TNT sensing based on Tobacco mosaic virus-like particle binding agents.

This paper presents a selective differential sensing method based on diffusion modulation of the target molecules through suspended Tobacco mosaic virus-like particles modified with binding peptides for TNT sensing in solution.